New "County Mountie" now on patrol

RCMP member working with County for safety of residents

By Rhonda Noyce
Staff Writer

The County of St. Paul No. 19 is the first rural municipality in Alberta to acquire the services of enhanced policing for duties other than just weights and measures enforcement.

Former Elk Point detachment member, Const. Catherine Bedard, has been hired as the new "County Mountie." And she began her new duties on August 1.

"I went through all of the divisions during my first six shifts and most people feel relieved about what is being done," Bedard said Friday. "Nine out of 10 people are receptive to this position ... It's just a matter of getting out to the public what this job is about."

The County decided to accept the enhanced policing services for three primary reasons, says Reeve Ray Danyluk. These reasons include prevention and education, protection and enforcement.

"The dominating reason above everything else is for the safety of our ratepayers," Danyluk said Friday.

Bedard will not carry an investigations file. If there are any problems, she will pass the information on to the regular RCMP members. She will also be putting away her tickets and replacing them with information brochures on safe driving.

"But she is still out there looking for violations," added Staff Sgt. Jim Fell of the St. Paul detachment. "If you go blowing through stop signs, you're going to get stopped."

Danyluk added that the County Mountie has the knowledge and the ability to follow through on any enforcement when necessary.

An example is the heavy oil traffic in the eastern part of the county or logging in the north. If the drivers are not following the rules of the road, the County Mountie can be directed to the source of the problem and amend it in the most efficient way possible.

Aside from the regular police duties, Bedard will also be working with the community through public education, focussing on communicating with the local ratepayers to determine areas of concern. Dennis Bergheim is the main contact person who will communicate concerns to Bedard, but the County Mountie will also receive mail and messages at the County office.

Bedard is travelling in a Chevy short box, extended cab pick-up decked out with the usual RCMP colors and markings. The truck is outfitted with weigh scales, a radar set and a police video system in addition to basic police equipment.

But who is our new County Mountie?

Catherine Bedard was raised in rural Nova Scotia and has been employed with the RCMP in Elk Point since she graduated from training in 1995. She was involved with many educational workshops in conjunction with the health unit and through the local schools. She is also a liaison officer with the Rural Crime

Watch and the Oil Patch Watch.

Bedard will begin teaching DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) this fall at Elk Point Elementary School. In her free time, Bedard enjoys spending time with her horses which she has acquired since her arrival in Alberta. In fact, she is one of the local officers who went on the RCMP mini-trek last week, and she is helping coordinate the March West journey next summer.

For further information on the County Mountie and her duties, contact Dennis Bergheim at the County office or Const. Bedard at the Elk Point or St. Paul RCMP detachments.

County plan

Ratepayers voice their concerns with the County's future

By Rhonda Noyce
Staff Writer

About 30 people gathered in the basement of the County of St. Paul office last Wednesday to voice their opinions on the revamped municipal development plan. Perhaps the most heated debate came with the subject of designating land for agricultural use or for subdivisions.

Jacques Dargis, who was also a resident on the municipal plan committee, expressed his concern for young farmers who are trying to make a living but are faced with barriers such as subdivision policies.

"The ideal scenario would be if all of the farmers lived in town and saved the land for farming," Reeve Ray Danyluk said in a less than serious manner.

"We've heard that agriculture should be given priority especially if it is already there ... but there is a consensus from the committee that the plan needs some stringent guidelines."

Murray Nielson of Elk Point said people also need to look at the other side and to those residents who live in the county. He added that residents shouldn't have to put up with the smell coming from large animal production facilities.

"We are putting too much emphasis on the smell," said County Councillor Frank Schwengler. "Isn't it more harmful when you travel to Edmonton and your eyes are watering because of the smog?"

Roger Charbonneau, who was on the committee and is also a hog producer, raised the issue of first parcel out.

"There is a philosophy out there that questions the existence of agriculture. Farming operations are getting larger and larger. The distance separation is getting larger and larger while residents are getting closer and closer," said Charbonneau. "We could say no to first parcel out, but then that doesn't help people who want to sell."

William Dolman, a municipal planning contractor, said the County must make a decision on a policy it will take when it comes to this matter, but it won't be easy. The contractor knows of many other rural municipalities facing this dilemma.

"Farmers may have too much land or a couple bad years and want to sell off some acreages," said Dolman.

St. Paul Mayor John Trefanenko said they would like to continue to work with the County to provide the right type of housing for area residents.

"We have the ability to create one-half to two-thirds acre lots in town," said Trefanenko. "If we work together, we can solve some of these issues."

Danyluk concluded that the County would have to develop stringent land use regulations that allow for the maintenance of land in harmony with residential lots.

Other issues discussed at the meeting touched on lakeside lots, education and job training and environmental demands.

The municipal development plan committee will meet one more time to include all the items discussed at the meeting. The plan must be finalized by September.

■ Northern Lights Library System

New chair named for Board

(ELK POINT, AB.) — Marvin Soderberg of Lloydminster has been named chair of the Northern Lights Library System Board of Directors. He was elected to the one year term at the annual general meeting May 9.

A Board member for the past year and a half, Soderberg brings both business and educational perspectives to the leadership role. He is a certified management accountant, and worked for several years in industry before joining the faculty of Lakeland College in January 1997. Soderberg is also a member of the Lloydminster Public Library Board, and the Lloydminster Family Day Home Board.

"This is a very exciting time for Northern Lights as we focus on bringing new members into the system," says Soderberg. "It's encouraging to see the provincial government's support for library systems, and I think there's a growing awareness among the public of the advantages that library systems offer. These libraries will really be on the leading edge, especially in terms of wide access to information and materials for library patrons, and professional resources for library staff."

In recent months, Northern Lights Library System representatives have made presentations to several interested municipalities across north-eastern Alberta. The system currently has 15 members, each with representation on the Board.

The system has also recently hired two librarians, completing its roster of professional staff. Karla Palichuk, Technical Services Librarian, will be primarily responsible for directing the automation process for member libraries, and implementing other aspects of the technology plan. Palichuk has been librarian at the Vermilion Public Library for the past two years, and was also Technical Services Librarian for Northern Lights on a part-time basis. She holds a Master of Library of Information Studies (MLIS) and a Bachelor of Arts in Comparative Literature from the University of Alberta.

Kerry Anderson will join Northern Lights as the Public Services Librarian. She will work mainly in staff training for member libraries, patron services, and coordinating special programs. Anderson is a recent graduate of the MLIS program at the University of Alberta, and also holds a Bachelor of Arts in General Humanities from the University of Calgary.

Garden harvesting is here!

Deanna Easthope
FCSS Director

Yes, garden harvesting is here! Mind you, garden harvesting has been with us for some time now. The peas and beans are done. Small beets, etc. are done. Rhubarb is ongoing. Raspberries and other berries are done. However, there is still more to do. There are other vegetables — like cucumbers, zucchini, squash, pumpkin, etc.

Speaking of zucchini — now that is one versatile vegetable! You can make so many things with it! In fact I have a cookbook with only zucchini recipes. However, there is one fabulous — awesome recipe that I thought I would share with you that I received several years ago from Irene Miller. It is called Zucchini Pie and it makes a 10" to 11" PIE.

ZUCCHINI PIE

4 cups thinly sliced zucchini
1 cup coarsely chopped onion
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup chopped parsley
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
1/4 tsp. garlic powder
1/4 tsp. basil
1/4 tsp. oregano

2 eggs (beat whites separately)
2 cups shredded old cheddar cheese
Dijon Mustard (I use the ordinary one)
Parmesan cheese

Method: Cook zucchini and onion in butter 10 minutes or until tender. Add all seasonings. Blend egg yolks with cheese, then add to vegetables. Blend beaten egg whites into mixture. Meanwhile — prepare pastry shell. Spread mustard over pie shell. Sprinkle this with Parmesan. Then pour in ingredients and cover with pastry shell.

Bake at 375 degrees for 20 minutes or until center is done. So, whether or not you try this zucchini recipe, there is something to be said for garden harvesting time. There is nothing that beats the taste of vegetables out of our own garden. They just have a "it's so good" taste. Yes, gardens are a lot of work. But they are worth it!

That reminds me of a thought. One day a city man was visiting a farmer for a few days. He noticed that the farmer always kept himself busy. The farmer seemed to work from sunup to sundown. So he said to the farmer: "You amaze me." "You never seem to lose heart. Do you always hope for the best?" The farmer thought for a moment and then with eyes flashing he replied, "No, I don't hope for it — I hop for it!" ... So, all the best to the garden harvesters because I know you are doing that too.

Government responds to lotteries summit report

Many of you will be familiar with the Lotteries and Gaming

LANGEVIN
MLA Report

Summit that was held in Medicine Hat last spring. The Lotteries and Gaming Summit provided people from all walks of life with an opportunity to shape Alberta's lottery and gaming policy. The Alberta Government recently reviewed the delegates' report from the summit and endorsed all eight recommendations.

A key recommendation suggested that more gaming and lottery profits collected by the government be directed to supporting charitable or non-profit initiatives. This recommendation was accepted in principle by the province, although further review is required through the business planning process to determine how the dollars will be allocated. The government gave approval for a one-time expenditure of up to $130 million from the Alberta Lottery Fund so that municipalities can upgrade existing infrastructure in accordance with priorities established by local municipal councils. This funding comes in addition to the $173.3 million the Lottery Fund already gives directly to Alberta communities in the form of grants to community lottery boards, recreation groups, facilities enhancement, volunteer groups, and other community-based projects. Summit delegates also recommended that gaming and lottery revenues not be directed to the province's general revenue fund. The government has accepted this recommendation in principle and will further examine it through the budget and business planning process.

Fairs and exhibitions have not had an adjustment to their grant structure for almost a decade, and they will have their current funding of $11.4 million raised to $16 million. In addition, base grants to Alberta's 278 agriculture societies will increase from $3.5 million (or $12,500 per society) to $4.9 million (or $17,500 per society) recognizing the importance of the agricultural industry to Alberta's economy.

The provincial government also acted on a summit recommendation that would restrict all forms of gambling to people 18 years of age and older. Since most gaming activities are already restricted to adults, this change will primarily impactingos. The Alberta Gaming and Liquor Commission will work further to develop a policy acceptable to bingo associations and community groups.

Problem gambling was cited as a concern to summit delegates and they recommended more resources be allocated to education, prevention and treatment programs. In recognition of the seriousness of problem gambling, the provincial government also plans to allocate additional funding to the development of education programs related to problem gambling and the establishment of an independent problem-gambling research institute.

The Lotteries and Gaming Summit was held April 23 through April 25 of this year. Of the approximately 125 delegates who attended, half were chosen randomly and had no affiliation with pro- or anti-gambling groups. The recommendations were taken directly from this summit.

TIC Talk

By Sherry Pelech
Tourist Information Centre Clerk

We had a visitor at the TIC the other day, from Wisconsin — one of the few Americans we've seen this year. He and his young son were travelling across Canada, then going north to the Northwest Territories, the Yukon and Alaska. They, like other tourists we have seen, were surprised to find themselves in Elk Point. ("We're where? Oh. How did we get there?")

We mentioned the devalued loonie to him and suggested that his American dollar must buy a lot more. "Not so," he insisted. Our higher prices mean that things cost about the same as they do in the States even with the advantageous exchange rate on the money. But nonetheless, they 'loved Canada' and thought it was 'very beautiful'. Although they were still laughing about the half hour time zone change in Newfoundland. "I couldn't believe it when we were crossing on the ferry and they told us to set our watches back 1/2 hour. I always thought that was a joke." "It is a joke," we assured him. "But it's also true. When the world comes to an end, we're all moving to Newfoundland. The world will end half an hour later there."

But Newfoundland isn't that different. (Well, okay, it is). They have half hour time zone changes in some places in Australia also.

CF Ombudsman faces first battle

OTTAWA — Art Eggleton, the Minister of National Defence has told his new Canadian Forces

LEON BENOIT
MP Report

Ombudsman he must ask permission before he can schedule any future meetings. Leon Benoit, Defence Critic, was told by Mr. Marin during an August 7 meeting that a "ministerial directive" is preventing him from doing the job he has been assigned. Asked why he has been cancelling and postponing meetings, Marin explained that he is not allowed to speak to anyone outside the military without direct approval from the Minister's office.

"On the 9th of June Mr Eggleton stood in front of a press conference and assured everyone that the new Ombudsman would have the Minister's full support and backing," recalls Benoit. "Not even two months later we are seeing exactly how sincere he was about that promise."

It has also been revealed that this isn't the first roadblock the Minister has laid in Marin's path. Eggleton had attempted to handpick a military staff for Marin, and had also chosen his office — right in the heart of National Defence Headquarters.

"The Minister obviously had no intention of allowing Mr. Marin to conduct investigations without interference," states Benoit. "And to his credit, Mr. Marin insisted on choosing his own staff and office location. The Minister panicked and is now trying to clamp down on what information goes in the Ombudsman's office in the only way he has left."

"The time has come for the Ombudsman to demand the Minister give him the independence he was promised when Mr. Marin was appointed two months ago," stated Benoit. "And I will help him any way I can."

■ Region urges safe food handling

Helps prevent disease

SMOKY LAKE — There has been an increased rate of occurrence of E. coli in various parts of Alberta so far this summer.

The LRHA wants to remind all residents of the Region that safe handling of food can prevent this disease. Eating infected food products causes most E. coli infections. Ground beef is particularly common as the source.

Here are some important tips to keep in mind when handling food:

1. Wash hands before and after handling all food.
2. Clean the food preparation area thoroughly, especially when working with ground meat.

3. Change or thoroughly clean the plate on which raw meat is stored before using the plate for any other purpose.
4. Hot food should reach and be maintained at a temperature of more than 60 degrees Celsius.

5. Cold food must be kept below four degrees Celsius at all times.
6. Thaw meat in a refrigerator, not on a kitchen counter.

7. Cook the meat thoroughly to kill all bacteria that may be in the raw product. Ensure that the meat is brown throughout — rare (pink) meat has not reached a high enough temperature.

8. To limit person to person spread, and the spread of the disease through cooking, make sure hands are washed thoroughly after any toilet activities, including changing of diapers.

E. coli symptoms are flu-like, causing severe cramps, fever and diarrhea, which is usually bloody. For more individuals, the disease lasts about a week but in some cases it can develop into a serious, life-threatening condition involving the kidneys.

Once again, the LRHA reminds residents of the Region that safe handling of food can prevent this disease.

As I think of the last week at the Library considering what to write about for this article, I am struck by how fast the last week has gone. Hudson Bay Company repeats history

Terri Duffee

Fort George / Buckingham House
Interpretive Centre

During our 4th week at Fort George / Buckingham House Day camp the mighty Hudson Bay Company repeated history in our flag / water fight ceremony. Not only did they win back their flag from the Northwest company but also took theirs. Revenge was on the mind of those mighty Northwest traders as they tried to drown the Hudson's Bay Traders in an all out water war, but to our surprise it was the interpretive staff and Kali Cousins who won in the end. We learned how to bargain for our trade goods with our furs pelts that each company received and what the value of the made beaver was. Make sure you take these kids with you when you go shopping because they can really get a deal for you now.

Next week will be the mid-point for our program. Throughout this week you will learn the story of the Dream Catcher. How to make a dream catcher, learn beading patterns and what they mean. The staff is very pleased with the results and interest that we have been shown by the community for the support of our program. We would like to take this time to thank everyone and hope to see you all for another four weeks of fun. During the last half of the program we will be doing Native Crafts, Tipi and Fort Living, and also Fur Trading.

Just two weeks left for the Summer Reading Program

By Melissa Easthope

Elk Point Public Library

Just two more weeks and the Summer Reading Programs season will be drawing to a close. With three weeks left the Summer Reading Program this past week discovered Soccer.

The Junior Group showed their skills as they took their best shots at scoring in the smaller version of a soccer net (with and without a goalie). Then we returned to the program room in the library to decorate no-bake cookies. Sometimes there would be more decoration on the cookie than there was cookies. Once the kids were full of sugar we sent them home to their parents.

The Senior group took their own stab at a real soccer game. With the Hurricanes defeating the Meanies with a score, that I cannot remember. Then we went back to the Library to make and decorate some cookies. Does this not sound like a lot of fun?

If so, come and join us at the Library this week as the Junior group flies kites. For the Senior Group we are working on setting up tennis, but if it does not work out we will have something else planned.

This week's trivia question: name the first five players elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1936.

July 28th week's answer: The Utah Jazz played in New Orleans, Louisiana from 1974 to 1979 before moving to Utah in 1997.

Love of antiques spills out of former church

A handsome new sign graces a weathered grey grain wagon, a retired steel wheeled tractor and an elderly wheel-driven manure spreader rest beneath the tall trees. A wash boiler has given up its job of helping to keep a family clean and is overflowing with flowers. The double doors beneath the pointed steeple are open in welcome.

The new home of Kuhn's Collectibles was once the home of Elk Point's Roman Catholic parish. When increases in congregation and diligent fundraising resulted in the building of a fine new church a few blocks away, Gordon and Sharon Kuhn saw the "For Sale" sign on the property and thought "What a place for an antique store!"

Today, pews and pulpit have been replaced by an awesome collection of antique furnishings and household effects, everything from massive wardrobe closets to delicate china. Bedroom suites, dining room tables and buffets, Hoosier-style kitchen cabinets, Depression glass, and a pair of wonderful shaded oil lamps make us feel like we're back in Grandma's house.

A huge Elk Point Farm Equipment calendar from 1954 takes us back to Grandpa's workshop, and rows of tobacco cans, oil cans and pop bottles add to the atmosphere. Horse collars and Coleman lamps were part of every farm less than half a century ago, and now are always been interested in antiques." One of their first purchases, an old round oak table, over the years has joined by so many other elderly pieces that their home in the Armistice district overflowed.

The two come from antique-loving families, and Sharon's parents, Ardis and the late Parke Dobson of Paradise Valley, were instrumental in the creation of that community's unique elevation.

tried to get a wide variety of things, there should be something here for everybody." At the moment, the stock is "a little short on men's things, and we're working on that." Nothing stays in the shop long enough for the Kuhns to get attached to it, "but we do have our favorite pieces."

A good crowd was on hand for the store's grand opening on July 1, and a number of items found new homes that day, but many more have since appeared to take their place.

The antique-buying bug has bitten these two with a vengeance, and Sharon says "it would be pretty easy to out-grow this building if we got carried away."

Kuhn's Collectibles is located 3 1/2 blocks west of Highway 41 on 50th Avenue and is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

One track star heads south, two win at provincials

By Doug Bassett
Review Sports

Last week we had promised to bring you some local stars on the track and field circuit, and I was surprised to see that someone had got the jump on me with the Julie Whiffen-Peters story at Legion Track Camp in Calgary. I'm not sure who but I suspect that it may have been her father, Tony Peters.

OK, I know, if we weren't so busy with the baseball provincials, we would have had Julie's story in sooner, but unfortunately what last week's story failed to tell you is that Tony, Jackie, Julie and Brian will be leaving us this month when Tony takes a transfer with Pan Canadian, south to the land of the dinosaurs, Drumheller. Here's another great family of athletes and volunteers leaving us and they will be really missed by not only myself, but by all our community. Tony was always involved in minor hockey, usually as a team manager and could be counted on around the arena when we had our many work bees. Jackie was very involved for many years in the arena, as the Skating Club president and coach. Julie, who skated and played ball for many years until she got involved with track and field, will continue competing and plans on joining a track club in Calgary. And then there's Brian, another one of our promising minor league hockey players, with good blood lines from his father Tony "The Newf", a lifetime member of the B and R Bullets, playing for the last ten years as one of their top scoring centres, who is still one of the best in the beer league, a real competitor who would not let anyone push him around in front of the net and who is going to be hard to replace. So there you go. Now you know "the rest of the story."

Now, as promised, we still have some other local talent to tell you about. On June 27 and 28 Travis Lindquist competed in the Jack Brown Memorial Track Meet in Kelowna, BC, placing sixth in the long jump (4.04 m) and won a bronze in the triple jump (8.36 m). The following weekend he competed in Red Deer for the Alberta

Free breakfast for rodeo weekend

John Yettaw, Elk Point's branch manager of the Servus Credit Union, is pleased to announce that he and his staff will be hosting a free pancake breakfast during the Elk Point Rodeo weekend. Participants and spectators of the Elk Point Rodeo and the Elk Point Agricultural Fair, along with participants in the Oilmen's Golf Tournament are invited to drop by for breakfast on Saturday morning, August 15 for pancakes, sausages and coffee. The breakfast will be served up by Credit Union staff in their parking lot on the corner of 50th Avenue and 50th Street, Elk Point.

Sunny weekend on order for Elk Point Rodeo, Aug. 15 & 16

The Elk Point Agricultural Society (Livestock Division) is hosting its 7th Annual Stampede in Elk Point on August 15 and 16.

This rodeo features 7 major events, 2 junior events as well as Novice Saddle Bronc / Bareback Riding. The rodeo stock will be supplied by the Les Trach Rodeo Co. of St. Paul and the rodeo announcer is Bernie Poitras of Islay, Alberta. Competitors from the local area, as well as from across the province of Alberta will be in attendance. We are sure to see some very tough competition as cowboys and cowgirls alike vie for a position at Showdown '98 in St. Paul on September 3, 4, 5 and 6 as this rodeo is one of the last stops on the Lakeland Rodeo Association Calendar for the 1998 season.

Rodeo performances are Saturday and Sunday at 1:00 p.m. at the Fairgrounds on the north end of town.

Don't forget about the rodeo dance in the fairgrounds indoor arena on Saturday night beginning at 9 p.m. It's sure to be a great time!

This year's rodeo has been moved to August from its original date in May in hopes of better weather. So come on out to the rodeo — enjoy the sunshine and watch the rodeo action.

Curtis Croteau

Birthday: February 27, 1983

Age: 15

Height: 5'10"

Weight: 180 lbs.

Nickname: Crow

Favorite Player: Babe Ruth

One of the toughest jobs on the team is sitting on the bench, then coming in to bat cold, in situations with two out and your teammates looking for a hit to keep them alive, as the Crow was called upon to do many times during the provincial series. Big and strong and still growing, Curtis played on the Bantam team during the season, and then was called up to be with the midgets during their provincial drive, to help fill up their roster. Although he did not see a lot of playing time, he was used in a few games as the designated hitter, and finished the season with a batting average of .346. A solid team player who was always encouraging his teammates and never complained even though he knew he might not get to play, Crow paid his dues, and with three years of midget ball ahead of him, his time will come when he will be a regular and some of the other rookies will be on the bench waiting for their chance to show what they're made of.
